NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE having completed the twelfth year of its existence, on the 9th of April, signalized its entrance into its teems by an enlargerment of its borders, adding fally one third to its area, and which will require us beneeferth to pay more for the white paper on which it is printed than all we receive from its subscribers. And, ample as our income has been, (though less ample shan it has been currently reported) our expenditures for the next year must be larger than our annual income has ever yet born.

We have taken this important step not wishout refluctance, but upon the maturest consideration. There are thirteen of us concerned in the Tribune establishment as prepriators with one shundred and seventy more directly employed on the paper—all to be subsisted out of its current income—and this unlargement and secondary increasing our receipts. Yet we encounter so many complaints of the small type, too fine print, bad for the eyes, &c., that we have received to risk our all on the enterprise of making a paper which will satisfy many theurands who have hitherto stood aloof, and so emisage our subscription and Advertising as to secure us a reward for our exertions in the future equal to that we have enjoyed in the past. If we can add one fourth to our reading matter, and present the whole in fair, clear type of good size, we believe we may nearly double our circulation; and this, though of no direct advantage to us, secures such an increase of our Advertising as will leave us nothing to desire.

The Semi-weekly Tribune was unlarge? to the new size of lation; and this, though of no direct advantage to us, secures such an increase of our Advertising as will leave us nothing to desire.

The Semi-weekly Tribune was enlarged to the new size of the daily, and we urge our country friends who have no daily mail, or think they cannot afford a daily paper, to give this an examination. We always study to condense the largest possible amount of useful and interesting matter into our Weekly; you it is physically impossible that we should print there even one-third of our letters from Europe, Asia Minor, India, California, Mexico, Central America, de., &c. But all these are given in our temi-weekly. There is not another paper issued in the world which contains so large an amount of mainly original reading for so small a sum; and we trust that, since postage has been reduced to a mere bagatelle, there are thousands of our friends who have hitherto taken the weekly, who will henceforth take the semi-weekly. We will send a specimen to any one who, without subjecting us to expense, shall see fit to apply for it.

The Weekly Tribune will likewise be enlarged to the new size of the Daily in September next, at the close of its current volume. It will then be the largest Weekly afforded to Clube for $1$ per annum in the world, and its white paper will cost us nearly or quite all that we receive from its Club Subscribers. We shall hope to make it pay by appropriating a small part of the new space we thus create to Advertisements, which until such subargent, we must continue to keep within the narrowest limits. It is issued every Thursday morning, and contains most of the matter of the Daily, with more summary accounts of such Erents and Proceedings as cannot be published in full. We mean that no Weekly whall surpass this in giving a full, graphic, and faithful account of what the World is Doing, whereaf it is Thinking, and how it is Progressing. Progressing.

Look out for the Old Lumber Yard. WELL seasoned Pine Lumber suitable for all build VV ing purposes, can all times be had at the Old Hannibal Lumber Yard, which has been established 8 years. The proprietor deems it unnecessary to puff his Lumber to make it sell, or to say any thing about experience in the business except to those who never pur-chased from him. He would remark that an experience of eight years in the business gives the decided advantage over any other who never had experience—his Lumber has been purchased for cash and selected with great care, from the best mills in the Pinery. Mechanics and others wishing to purchase Lumber would find it to their advantage to call and examine the stock. of Lumber and Shingles at the Old Lumber Yard be-fore purchasing elsewhere.
